Regardless of what Venezuela proposes to do in the matter, it is beyond question that Castro is a serious predicament with the chances strongly against him.

May Leave at Martinique.

PARIS, April 6.—A dispatch to the Journal from Basse-Terre, Guadeloupe, where the steamer Guadeloupe arrived today, says that General Castro, learning that he will not be allowed to land at Trinidad, has decided to leave the ship at Port de France, Martinique.

In Violent Rage.

PARIS, April 6.—The news that he would not be allowed to land at Trinidad threw Castro into a violent rage. Prior to leaving Pointe-a-Pitre, he left a vigorous protest with the British consul against the instructions of the British government. He showed particular animosity at the presence of an American cruiser, which will escort the Guadeloupe to her final destination. To the Journal correspondent he said: "The existing Venezuelan Government has certainly asked for the intervention of the United States of America, which means that a revolution is imminent at Caracas. I shall abstain from taking part in it." General Castro will send his family to La Guayra.

HITS AT ROOSEVELT

French Newspapers Are Cautious in Their Comments.

PARIS, April 6.—The French press is displaying great interest and curiosity in Theodore Roosevelt.

"When the Caesar of modern democracy goes hunting, Europe, Asia, Africa and America climb to their windows and watch the caravan of publicity," says the way one of the papers describes Mr. Roosevelt's journey to East Africa.

A majority of the French correspondents sent to Naples to interview their impressions of Mr. Roosevelt say that the former President of the United States is absorbed in himself. They describe his cabin as filled with his own books and littered with photographs of himself and the members of his family.

They say that the only object not relating to Mr. Roosevelt himself in his cabin was a photograph of Emperor William bearing the imperial signature in green.

"More Powerful Than a King"

Mr. Roosevelt is further quoted as having said that the President of the United States was more powerful than any constitutional monarch of Europe. He pointed out the French correspondents aver, that he possessed the power of veto; that he appointed the entire diplomatic corps and the high governmental functionaries, and that he was a maker of treaties with only the consent of the Senate, which he characterized as the "national regulator." He said that for two years, while President, he spent his time in fighting the trusts and that he believed that he had left behind him America, where the only king was the State.

strikes out the proviso in paragraph 17 of the Payne bill. The paragraph fixes the duty on sawed lumber at $1 per 1,000 feet, and also fixes the duty on other classes of lumber. The proviso requires that the maximum rates provided for in sections three and four shall be imposed on lumber coming from any country which fixes an export duty on lumber shipped to the United States, or which in any other way discriminates against or restricts the exportation of lumber or other forest products to this country. The paragraph was directed especially against Canada, and in case of discrimination would have the effect of increasing the rates provided for in the main portion of the paragraph.

APPEAL IS NOTED.

Defeated Faction Not Satisfied With Election Result.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RICHMOND, Va., April 6.—A vote has been taken upon a location for the High School at Arvonia by the patrons of the school, Messrs. Stinson, Terrill and Williams, the local board of trustees, acting as judges, and they had two clerks to take charge of the books. Each patron was accorded one vote for each child he had, and thus there were cast 138 votes, resulting in a majority of eight in favor of locating the school on the site of the old mill. It was thought that this ended the matter, but the faction which wants the school located on the other side of the mill, served notice of an appeal. The matter of locating this High School has been considered by the State Board of Education, and by the trustee electoral board and has been voted on at election. The patrons, there is a handsome sum of money in the treasury to go to the building of this school, and it is hoped the two factions may unite and have one of the finest schools in the State.

Splendid Berry Models.

Here are styles that the wearer will be mighty proud to own. Come have the deers, full chest effect perfectly worked in. The splendid high Berry shoulders, not quite so broad as last season. Long rolling lapels—cutaway from bottom button and with pronounced dip in front. Black has vests, and is single-breasted. Trousers are hip-fitting, with wide thighs.

In this year's Easter parade the men will be almost as cheery in their dress as the women.

The master weavers have taken as a motif for this spring's men's fabrics, the colors that heretofore have been confined to neckwear, shirts and socks.

These have been so skilfully introduced into the body colorings that the effect as a whole, while joyous and beautiful, is not a bit gaudy or flaunting.

These Berry Suits, made from these brand new color schemes are what a woman calls a "dream" and a man "mighty handsome." Yet there is not a single boisterous pattern in the entire gamut of color effects.

News of Manchester

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, 1102 Bull Street.

Preparations are now being made for the laying of the corner stone for the new post-office building, which will take place some time in May. Although the work on the foundations is being pushed forward as fast as possible, the date has not yet been set for the ceremonies. The affair will be in the hands of the Masonic lodge of this city.

It is probable that the Richmond Light Infantry Blues' Battalion and the Howitzers' Battery will be present and lead the parade, which will be held before the corner-stone is to be laid. A letter has been sent to the City Council requesting that the day be declared a holiday, so that all of the pupils of the Manchester schools may take part in the exercises. Plans are already being made to have all of the children in the parade together, with a large chorus to sing while the exercises are going on. The date for the affair will be made known this week, and the Council at its next meeting will probably make the holiday for the school children.

Cut Down Bond Issue.

After much discussion in the meeting of the Finance Committee last night it was finally decided to issue bonds to the amount of $10,000 for the improvement of the streets. The original proposition before the committee was to have the issue $60,000, which it was thought would be sufficient to cover all immediate needs. The final decision was that the committee recommend an issue of the amount stated, and if necessary have another after this was expended. J. R. Perdrie, a member of the Free Bridge Commission, spoke heartily against issuing any bonds at all, saying that the money was more important for a new bridge. He thought the city could well afford to wait for better streets, but in his opinion the new bridge was imperative. Other members of the committee were not of the same opinion, however, and most of them wanted the bond issue in one form or another. Mr. R. C. Broadbent moved that it be made $20,000, instead of $10,000. A vote was taken on this motion, but it was lost. R. C. Broadbent then made the motion that the amount be made $10,000. This was recommended to the Council by a small vote. All the members of the committee stated that they would be glad to vote for the rest of the money proposed after the bonds for this amount had been placed and the money put to the credit of the city.

Another resolution was introduced requiring all the city officials to make statements of their salaries, fees and expenses, so that the Council could make a correct estimate of the city's expenses. This rule is made to apply to magistrates, policemen and others connected with the city government.

Want License Increased.

Though nothing tangible is being done on the subject, there is a well-defined rumor that certain people of the city, said to be working in conjunction with the Anti-Saloon League, are starting a movement for formulating a petition to the Council, asking that the liquor license be raised. The general impression is that the petition when it is finally submitted to the Council, will ask that the present tax for the licenses in the city be almost doubled. Most of the prominent liquor dealers were talking the matter over last night. Almost all of them were indignant, and were in favor of taking some action on their own account to have themselves protected.

Following the lead of the citizens of Richmond, they will probably soon get together and make a petition to the city government, asking that the license for the present at least be left as they are. They think that if the petition for higher license is placed under the consideration of the Council this elimination will be the law, and the business men this is most unpopular, and they will do all that is in their power to keep it off at this time. As many of the license holders will come over to Richmond next week to attend the meeting of the business men at the Academy of Music, where the question will be fully discussed.

"His Armorer," members of the Sunday school class of the Bainbridge Street Baptist Church, have organized a baseball team, and are anxious to meet any other team from this city. The Richmond whose players are between the ages of ten and twelve years. The players are: Ben Nunnally, Leon Williams, Roland Nunnally, John Nunnally, Guy Nunnally, Ray Ragland, Raleigh Henry, Raymond Blankenship and Edgar Wright.

All challenges should be addressed to 206 West Fourteenth Street. The Blue class of the District Athletic Association, which is under the same auspices, is increasing in numbers and interest. Last Friday there were thirty-one present, and the work in all departments is progressing finely. In the Monday and Tuesday night classes, two teams are competing each week in athletic events. Last night the "Pearls" won over the "Diamonds" by a margin of four points.

Clayton—Smith.

One of the most interesting marriages of the Easter season will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of the bride, Miss Fannie Lee Smith, on Cowardin Avenue, when she will be married to Everett Clayton, of Floyd Avenue, Richmond.

The bride is to be attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Smith. As soon as the ceremony is over, the couple will leave for a Northern trip. After their return they will make their home in Floyd Avenue, Richmond. The license was issued late Monday afternoon. Miss Smith is the daughter of John R. and Mary P. Smith. Mr. Clayton came to Richmond from the county.

Persons and Events.

The Street Committee met in the Council Chamber last night at 7:30 o'clock for the regular monthly session. Bills were approved for the purchase of a pair of mules and two teams, which were put to work in the street cleaning department yesterday morning. Besides the approving of current accounts, nothing else was done, as there will be no more money at the command of this department until after another appropriation has been made.

Detective Fred Dodson, who has been with the Atlantic Coast Line Railway for some time, has resigned his position rather suddenly. He was apparently well contented until a few nights ago, when an unknown person shot at him five times. Mr. Dodson thought the matter over and decided that his life was worth more than the job, so he will take up a more peaceful occupation in the shops of the Southern Railway.

Warrants were issued in the police office last night against J. W. Townes, colored, by Linwood Soule, of the same color. Soule, who had several others along with him, said that Townes had been boarding with him. It seems that yesterday afternoon he took a notion to leave the city, and took with him all that was worth having in the house.

When last seen he was heading towards Petersburg. Sergeant Wright forwarded notices there as soon as the warrant was issued. A prayer and praise service will be held in the Clifton Street Church tonight. All members of the church are expected to be present, and others are welcome.

George M. Trevillian will speak on "What Has Been Accomplished This Quarter." J. W. Kent, superintendent of the Sunday school, will speak on "Our Present Needs," and the pastor, Rev. J. Clarence Miles, will talk about "What We Expect to Accomplish Next Quarter."

Lily Council, Daughters of Liberty, met in Fraternal Hall last night. A number of candidates were initiated. Refreshments were served after the meeting was over.

In the case of Overton Dennis, charged with roller skating on the sidewalks, Mayor Maurice reserved his decision. The boy was represented by Mark E. Lloyd, and David P. Walke appeared against him.

Mother Leaves Daughter to Grow Up in Colored Family.

Helen Duiguid, a five-year-old white girl, was placed in the custody of a colored family, Officer Jones, of Henrico county, living in the house of Leather Lucas, a colored woman, in New Market, Va., just north of Ginter Park. The policeman took the child in charge and brought her to the courthouse, where she was turned over to the Methodist Orphanage.

The woman stated that the child had been left there by her mother, who found her too much trouble, and that the mother was now living in Newport News, where she has been for a year. She said also that the child's father was dead. Monthly remittances have been received from the mother for the child's maintenance. The people are said to be natives of Lynchburg, where Duiguid is a well-known name. The woman's name is Marie Lucas in Newport News.

HOTEL ENTERTAINING IN NEW YORK

Guests of St. Regis May Entertain Friends There as PERFECTLY AS AT HOME

Formerly all hotel life spelled "artificialness," and conditions have changed but little today in the class of hotels where the rooms consist of straight rows of narrow, comfortable and box-like bedrooms. At such hotels guests sleep and get out; they do not "live" there. At the St. Regis, located at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, New York City—admittedly the most exclusively arranged and furnished hotel in America—the features of hotel living, with home comforts and privacy and facilities for the entertainment of friends, have been carried to an extent that places this hotel in a class by itself. A week or a month spent in the metropolis during the one season of the year, at the St. Regis, and at other times, will be much more fully enjoyed if one is able to make some suitable return for the hospitality of resident friends. At the St. Regis the possible under conditions equal, if not superior, to those of the highest class private residences. Guests can be afforded facilities for entertaining friends in any manner that heart can wish, from a quiet luncheon to a formal dinner, or a formal dinner, the famous cuisine of the St. Regis, equal in all respects to the most celebrated restaurants of Europe, lends itself admirably to such arrangements, and its prices are no higher than any other first-class hotel. Room rates at the St. Regis are likewise low: $3 to $4 a day for a commodious and luxuriously furnished single room; the same, with private bath, for $5 a day for two people; or $12 a day and up for a superb suite of parlor, bedroom and private bath.

JUDGE MANN FOR BANK EXAMINERS

Explains Why He Voted Against the Bill in the Last Legislature.

Judge William Hodges Mann has given to The Times-Dispatch for publication elaborate replies to questions propounded to him by his competitor for the gubernatorial nomination, Hon. George W. Pease, concerning his position on bank examiners and compulsory education.

The statement of Judge Mann answering both questions follows:

"Mr. Tucker in his speech in Manchester on Saturday the 27th of March, said: 'My competitor says he favors a system of examination of State banks, but it is a fact that at the last session of the Legislature he was of another mind, and used his influence against such a bill, which was killed in the committee before which he appeared to oppose it.'

"The bill to which Mr. Tucker alludes was Senate bill 88, introduced by the Hon. Saxon W. Holt, of Newport News, and referred to the Committee on Insurance and Banking, of which Senator Holt was chairman. The bill provided for the appointment of a banking commission, under the control of the State Corporation Commission, at a salary of $3,500 a year; the appointment of two additional clerks as examiners, at a salary of $2,000 each; and provided $1,500 for the expenses of the commission.

Why He Opposed Bill.

"I opposed the bill in the form in which it was drawn, not the appointment of bank examiners. For the latter reason, I thought the examiner of the banks of the State should be under the control of the Insurance Department because allied to it, and naturally falling under its jurisdiction. There is at least one large bank having an insurance department, and guaranty departments; all of which already came under the jurisdiction of the Insurance Commissioner. The authority for the Legislature to provide for the insurance and banking is contained in the same sentence in the Constitution. Besides, the Insurance Department already had the necessary machinery, and the appointment of one additional clerk at $2,000 a year would have made a less expensive and far more efficient system.

"There are 239 banks and trust companies in Virginia, and as the bill required that each bank should be examined twice during the year, and at least three days would be required for each examination, 1,434 days' work would be required every year at the least, which could not be performed by less than six examiners, each of whom would be required to work 239 days.

"Upon these facts I reached the conclusion that it would be best to put the control of the banks in the Insurance Department, and so save a considerable sum to be expended in securing good men for examiners at good salaries.

Objection to Particular Bill.

"I was not opposed to bank examiners, nor to the general principles of the bill, but on the contrary, I favored them, and so stated to the committee, as the chairman remembers. My objection was to the particular bill then under consideration, which I did not then think, and do not now think, accomplishes the result desired. In a letter from Senator Holt, recently received, he stated that the reason his bill failed was because the committee was doubtful whether the Corporation Commission could be given the power to examine private banks. I was not a member of the committee, and the connection between the bill and the Corporation Commission was not made known to me until after the bill had failed.

"I am in favor of bank examiners, as I then stated to the committee, but I want them to be appointed by the Insurance Department, and I want the payment of the examiners in the order that a sufficient number of men and the most efficient and competent men may be secured, rather than the establishment of unnecessary salaries. It would be disastrous to have bank examiners not competent and fully qualified for their very important duties.

"In his Manchester speech, on the night of March 27, Mr. Tucker is reported as having said: 'Judge Mann says he is opposed to compulsory education, but the Senator from Stafford County, who is the very bill which I am introducing.'

"I did vote for the bill giving to school districts the power to determine by local option elections whether or not they desired compulsory education, within their respective borders. I have always favored local option, but I am opposed to compulsory education, and if such an election were called in the school district of county in which I live I would vote against it. I have

With more than 200 voices, the children's chorus of the Wednesday Club gave the most satisfactory rehearsal yet of the new song, "The May Festival." The list of subscribers to the musical critics who heard the youngsters sing declared that the performance by the children will be one of the best features of the May Festival, which is saying a great deal, considering the fact that the Damschke Orchestra and the other orchestra of the management will offer the best performance ever rendered here. There is great interest in the concert, and it is expected that more people will attend the concert than ever assembled for these concerts in recent years.
